Topics:

1. The three major stock indexes fluctuated upward, what should we do next?
2. How to make super profits through the investment market?

Good morning, team! I'm Milton Reese, your old friend. In the world of investment, choice is always better than effort, because direction determines everything. Think about it, if you choose the "Trump trade" this month, how much profit can you make? If you choose the crypto market this month, how much profit can you make? BTC has quickly risen from $65,000 to the current highest of $99,800 since Trump's victory, just one step away from $100,000. So if you use options strategy or contract trading strategy in this unilateral rising market? Maybe you have made amazing profits. However, what if you choose Chinese stocks this month? Maybe not only will you not make a profit, you may even face a huge loss. The market is ruthless. It always rewards those who go with the flow and punishes those who go against the flow.

Friends, stop wasting your energy on the wrong things. Choosing the right direction is far more important than blindly working hard! Data from BTC's historical halving cycles tells us that the bull market in the crypto market has just begun, and this opportunity is a rare test for every investor.

December is coming, which is not only the last sprint of the whole year, but also a critical moment to lay the foundation for wealth in the new year! To this end, we will officially launch the "Asset Multiplication Plan" in December to help everyone quickly get on the fast track of wealth appreciation and welcome the year 2025 full of opportunities and challenges! Limited spots available, so friends who have not registered, please contact the assistant as soon as possible to lock in your seat. More importantly, Vanguard AI 4.0 is not only impeccable in accuracy, but also can provide investors with strong data support and market insights.

Currently, Vanguard AI 4.0 is still being optimized. The next test will focus on advanced trading strategies such as options and contracts to further verify its applicability and efficiency in multiple fields. Once the test is successfully completed, we will fully enter the actual combat stage and officially introduce this system into the "Asset Multiplication

At the same time, starting this week, points can be used not only to redeem raffle codes, but also to redeem tokens, with every 100 points being exchanged for 10 EVW tokens.

Next, I will explain in detail how to claim EVW tokens: First, you need to register an account on the BFXCOIN exchange. Because EVW tokens are listed on the BFXCOIN exchange, you must trade and manage EVW tokens through this platform. This is just like when you want to invest in US stocks, you need to open an account on the U.S.

stock exchange first. About BFXCOIN exchange, it is a leading global digital currency exchange established in 2017, and is well-known in the industry for its security and professionalism. Afterwards, I will explain in detail the background and advantages of this exchange. As for the registration process and how to claim EVW tokens, please send a private message to the assistant, she will assist you in completing the registration and guide you on how to receive EVW tokens.

After receiving EVW tokens, do not rush to sell them. As shown in the chart below: EVW has not only successfully broken through the previous high, but also confirmed by a pullback. This trend is not only stable, but also sends a strong bullish signal, showing that the market's confidence in EVW is continuing to grow. From last Thursday to now, EVW has risen by more than 20%. From the technical form, there is still a lot of room for growth in the future. Moreover, the business school is currently fully promoting the testing of Vanguard AI 4.0. This is a highly forward-looking quantitative trading system that combines cutting-edge technology with deep market insights. Its powerful algorithmic capabilities and accurate trading signals have already shown their edge in the testing phase. Once the full verification is completed and the commercialization process is launched, Vanguard AI 4.0 will greatly enhance the market application and liquidity of EVW tokens, and become the core engine that drives the rapid rise of token value. It is expected that this key move will significantly promote the growth of EVW token prices, with a target price of $6 to $8, and may even create greater surprises.

The reason why EVW tokens are listed on BFXCOIN Trading Center is that we are not only optimistic about its qualifications (they have obtained regulatory and financial licenses from SEC and MSB), but also because their future plans are very beneficial to us. There are four main points:

1. BFXCOIN's AI Trading Center has a deep technical fit with Vanguard AI 4.0 that we are developing. This not only provides solid technical support for future cooperative practices and publicity, but also lays a good foundation for the further promotion of Vanguard AI 4.0.
2. The 10 billion U.S. dollar special fund plan launched by BFXCOIN has built a highly competitive talent delivery platform. For many outstanding students in our business school, this is not only a stage to demonstrate their abilities, but also a bridge to obtain more resources and opportunities.
3. BFXCOIN's future Nasdaq listing plan provides a broader prospect for the development of EVW tokens. It not only provides long-term support for the growth of token value, but also adds a strong endorsement to the market influence of our entire business school.
4. BFXCOIN's excellent reputation in the industry will not only help us further promote the Vanguard AI 4.0 system, but also provide a valuable platform support for our future launch of the full commercialization of the personal version of Vanguard AI 4.0.

The most important point is that BFXCOIN Trading Center's support for AI quantitative trading and charity is highly consistent with the core values of our business school community. They are not only committed to promoting the popularization of AI quantitative trading technology, but also actively participate in charity to help more people with dreams change their destiny through investment. This vision is perfectly in line with the mission of our EVW Business School to attract more people to pay attention to and engage in charity, while providing support for those who pursue financial freedom. This resonance of values is also one of the important reasons why we chose to cooperate with BFXCOIN Trading Center.

EVW Business

Last week, the three major U.S. stock indexes showed an overall oscillating upward pattern, all of which achieved gains. The Dow Jones Industrial Average performed particularly strongly, rebounding quickly after touching the key support level of MA25 on Tuesday, showing a strong repair ability. The Russell 2000 Index, which represents small and medium-sized stocks, rose strongly, becoming a highlight of the market and attracting widespread attention. In contrast, the rebound strength of the Nasdaq and S&P 500 was slightly insufficient. Although they tested the MA25 support level many times, the volume failed to be effectively amplified, showing that the market bullish confidence was still weak. At the same time, the performance of the technology sector was dragged down, and the Philadelphia Semiconductor Index was still in a downward trend. The overall trend was relatively weak, becoming an important factor suppressing the technology sector. It is worth mentioning that the VIX panic index continued to decline under the suppression of the MA62 moving average, indicating that market sentiment is gradually stabilizing. However, from the daily chart of VIX, although MA25 crossed MA62 to form a dead cross, the index is currently running at the bottom of the channel, suggesting that it may rebound at any time. With the weakening of expectations for the Federal Reserve's interest rate cuts and the intensification of geopolitical tensions, market uncertainty has increased significantly, further increasing the difficulty of operations.

In the current complex and changing market environment, we need to stick to the core track and focus on the artificial intelligence and encryption markets, as well as the key power support and other related industries behind them. These tracks are not only the core growth engines of the current market, but also contain huge potential in the future. Through the latest internal testing of Vanguard AI 4.0, it is found that the opportunities in the encryption market currently far exceed artificial intelligence, indicating that we should allocate more investment to the encryption market and seize its unique cyclicity and explosive power. In investment, strict implementation of risk control strategies is the key to avoiding short-term volatility shocks. At the same time, it is necessary to pay close attention to the performance of the three major indexes at key support and resistance levels to accurately grasp the market rhythm and create conditions for the layout of high-quality opportunities. Always adhere to the investment philosophy of "sticking to logic and following the trend" and look for certain returns in turbulent markets. This is the best way for us to cope with challenges and achieve wealth appreciation!

The recent market performance also reflects the complex and changing environment and the challenges of investment operations. Although Nvidia, one of the seven giants, has excellent financial reports, its stock price reaction is less than expected, highlighting the sensitivity of market sentiment and high requirements for future performance under the background of high valuation. In contrast, the crypto market has shown strong momentum, and Bitcoin has repeatedly set new highs, bringing considerable profits to investors, proving its unique appeal as an anti-inflation asset and emerging market target. At the same time, our Smart Investment Strategy Plan No. 2 has also achieved breakthrough results. AI concept stock SNOW rose by more than 30% in a single day, once again verifying the accuracy and foresight of Vanguard AI 4.0 trading system. In this complex environment, the Bible teaches us: "Though we are besieged on all sides, we are not overwhelmed; though we are perplexed, we are not in despair." Opportunities are born in challenges, and every market adjustment is to accumulate momentum for greater breakthroughs in the future. Let us face the uncertainty of the market with wisdom and patience, seize every ray of dawn in the trend, and light the light of our way forward with love and faith to welcome a better future!

When I was communicating with friends in the community recently, I found a common problem: many people lack systematic knowledge of asset allocation, and their investment directions are too scattered. From stocks, gold, real estate, crude oil, U.S. dollars to cryptocurrencies, many fields may be involved, but there is a lack of clear focus and core strategy. This unsystematic operation not only greatly reduces the efficiency of funds, but also easily misses opportunities with real growth potential in the market.

After a detailed analysis of various assets, I have identified two core directions for the future: artificial intelligence and the crypto market. The source of our recent operational profits has fully proved the correctness of this choice. In particular, the crypto market has far more opportunities than artificial intelligence. It not only has unique cyclicity, but also has strong explosive power. This clearly shows that we should allocate more investment to the crypto market and seize this unprecedented growth opportunity.

The essence of investment lies in following the direction of the country and the trend of the times. Investment is not simply chasing market fluctuations, but an art of following the trend. The direction of national policies and the main theme of the times often determine the most promising track in the future. Whether it is artificial intelligence, encrypted assets, or the power support behind them, the reason why these fields have performed strongly is that they are in line with the general trend and have received policy support and capital favor.

Instead of spreading your funds across multiple uncertain areas, it is better to focus on the core track. For example, Bitcoin's strong performance from $65,000 to nearly $100,000 clearly proves a truth: direction is more important than effort. Clarifying the main track and concentrating funds are the keys to achieving wealth appreciation. Only by choosing assets that are in line with the general trend and accurately allocating them can you maximize the benefits of your funds.

Friends, investment is a journey of dancing with the general trend. Standing on the shoulders of national policies, following the trend of the times, and building an investment portfolio with scientific methods and systematic strategies is the right path to achieve leapfrog growth in wealth. Don't let scattered operations drag down your returns, focus on the core track, and let your funds release the greatest potential in the right direction. Think about Nvidia, which has achieved a 300-fold increase in ten years; think about Bitcoin, each halving cycle brings dozens or even hundreds of times of growth, which reveals an important truth to us, the real big opportunities always appear in a few key tracks, and artificial intelligence and the encryption market are the core engines of the current era.

Bitcoin's growth trajectory after the 4th halving

What if Bitcoin's growth after the 4th halving follows the same pattern as the previous cycles?

Well assuming the same growth rate as the past three cycles we would expect one BTC to be worth anywhere between $140,000 and $4,500,000 per coin starting from $63,000.

Despite the new all-time high Bitcoin is still below the historical trend.

Today, the three major indexes opened higher and went higher. The Dow Jones and S&P 500 hit record highs before falling back, and the Nasdaq also fell back after hitting a high. The three major indexes rose overall but were accompanied by insufficient volume, indicating that the market's motivation to chase the rise was weak. However, the Russell 2000 index performed well, not only rising strongly, but also hitting a record high. Small and medium-cap stocks have become a highlight of the market recently. This may indicate that funds are gradually flowing from heavyweight stocks to small and medium-cap sectors with lower valuations and higher growth, bringing them more attention and opportunities. Against the background of insufficient volume, small and medium-cap stocks have higher elasticity, especially the trend of capital inflows in the short term may be further strengthened. Next, small and medium-cap technology stocks may usher in a new round of market conditions. Investors need to pay close attention to the volume changes after the Russell 2000 stands at a historical high, and look for good opportunities for layout after the breakthrough!

The Smart Investment Strategy Plan No. 3 COIN, which was deployed last week, is still fluctuating and is temporarily in a small loss stage. Professor mentioned in last week's crypto market sharing that BTC is facing the historic $100,000. dollar integer mark. This key point deserves high attention, especially the risk of callback cannot be ignored. Currently, BTC is repeatedly testing the support level of $95,000. Once the support level is lost, it may further callback, but from the overall trend, the general direction is still positive.

As the world's largest cryptocurrency trading platform, COIN's trend is highly correlated with Bitcoin's volatility. Therefore, if COIN is to achieve greater performance, the key lies in whether BTC can break through the historic integer mark of $100,000 in one fell swoop. A breakthrough will inject strong momentum into the crypto market and drive COIN to an explosive rise; if BTC continues to pull back, COIN may still be dominated by fluctuations in the short term. Next, we need to pay close attention to BTC's key support and pressure positions, and flexibly adjust strategies according to market changes. Grasping the trend and patiently waiting for breakthrough signals are the current core operating ideas.

In the morning, the professor shared how to earn excess profits in the market. Next, I would like to talk about some of my views. In fact, I have encountered many problems in my past operations. For example, the account assets may only be a few million, but the stock selection and operation are too scattered, and too many stocks are bought at one time. Although occasionally I see individual stocks rise by 200% or even 400%, the overall income has not increased significantly because the position allocation is not concentrated, and the account as a whole may even suffer losses.

This is exactly the core mistake that many investors often make: they are too eager to "seize every opportunity" but ignore the importance of concentrating superior resources to lock in core opportunities. Excessive diversification will not only dilute profits, but also make it difficult for investors to effectively manage risks and ultimately achieve ideal returns. In the market, the key to truly earning excess profits lies in clarifying the main line and seizing the super track of the times. Only by doing less but better and grasping those core assets with the greatest potential can investors achieve excess returns on the most important track.

All investment masters, whether Charlie Munger, Warren Buffett, Peter Lynch, or William O'Neill, are well aware of the key role of concentrated investment. Take Buffett's investment in Apple as an example. His strategy is classic. As we all know, Buffett has always been cautious about Internet technology stocks, but from 2016 to 2018, he not only bought Apple in large quantities, but also adopted a heavy investment strategy, with the proportion of holdings once reaching 60% of the stock portfolio. This layout fully demonstrates his precise grasp of the super track and his high trust in the leading target in the track. Facts have proved that this concentrated investment has brought Buffett a huge profit of about 180 billion US dollars, becoming one of the most brilliant success stories in his investment career.

This classic case tells us that when the logic is clear and the trend is clear, concentrated investment is the best strategy to amplify returns and seize the super opportunities of the times. The essence of investment lies in identifying the core themes of the times and decisively betting on the most certain targets. True success comes not only from diversification, but also from precise focus and bold actions at critical moments.

If you are an active value investor, you can screen opportunities by diversifying your test positions in the early stage, but once you find the core track of the era, the leader of the industry, and the sector with the most capital effect, you should concentrate your resources and hold a large position instead of dividing your positions too fragmented. For example, in the technology sector, which we always pay close attention to, the professor led community members to invest heavily in Nvidia in batches in early 2023, and invested heavily again on January 8, 2024. The two operations led many friends in the business school to earn excess profits. I still remember clearly that I achieved an astonishing 280% return on total assets in my account on Nvidia. Concentrated investment is an important means to achieve investment goals. Otherwise, it is difficult to bring about substantial changes by grabbing 10x stocks with 1/100 of the capital. Of course, some people believe that diversified investment has lower risks. It seems that risks are dispersed by selecting multiple targets, but in fact, diversified investment not only fails to effectively reduce risks, but may dilute the overall rate of return. When investing, the most important thing is to clarify the source of our returns: We invest in national destiny, which is the core track with the most capital effect in each era.

School

Choosing the leading stocks in the track can not only reduce the real risks, but also cross the cycles and bull and bear markets to achieve long-term benefits.

So what is the core track of the current era? The two most profitable super tracks are undoubtedly: artificial intelligence and cryptocurrency.

First of all, in the technology sector that has been hot in recent years, artificial intelligence is undoubtedly the core theme, and the basic layer of it, chips, is the foundation of the entire AI ecosystem. In this field, NVIDIA is undoubtedly a leading company with unique potential. The professor led his business school friends to invest heavily in NVIDIA twice in 2023 and 2024, and achieved a rich return of more than 100%. Last week, although NVIDIA's financial report still exceeded market expectations, due to limited speculation space in the short term, the stock price fell after the financial report exceeded expectations. The professor made a prompt decision and immediately notified everyone to get out and quickly adjusted the investment portfolio to find more potential targets. This ability to flexibly adjust strategies is one of the keys to successful investment.

Secondly, there is another track that we always pay close attention to: the crypto market. BTC has experienced four halvings, and each halving reduces the block reward by 50%. Judging from the historical rules of the first three halvings, Bitcoin's halving cycle is often accompanied by a surge in prices, which usually reaches more than ten times or even hundreds of times. In the fourth halving cycle, Bitcoin has risen from $65,000 to $99,800, but the current increase has not exceeded 100%. Judging from the data of the first three historical halving cycles, $100,000 may just be the starting point of a new round of Bitcoin bull market. Are you ready for the arrival of the big bull market in the crypto market?

Summary: When the logic is clear and the trend is clear, concentrated investment is the core strategy to achieve excess returns. Artificial intelligence and cryptocurrency are the two undisputed super tracks. Only by taking decisive action can we seize the huge opportunities of this era and achieve a leap in wealth! So, are you ready to adjust your investment portfolio? It's time to optimize the allocation, focus on the core track, grasp the most promising targets, and move towards higher investment returns! Today's sharing ends here, see you tomorrow.

Today's questions:

1. When will the Smart Investment Strategy Plan No. 4 start and what is the target return? (10 points)
2. Have you received EVW tokens? What is the target price of EVW expected to reach? (10 points)
